Policy Statement

It may be necessary to close all schools, close schools by Centre, or have a bus delay to ensure that students are not endangered by poor weather or road conditions, or loss of essential services, hydro, or property damage.

Individual bus drivers have a responsibility to communicate with their Assistant Manager a delay for their individual bus run. If a driver feels a part of their run is not safe, they must report this to their Assistant Manager, should they encounter a particular safety concern.

The final responsibility for determining whether or not students attend classes on days when hazardous weather conditions exist (e.g. extreme wind chill, snow, ice) and schools remain open rests with the parents/guardians. Students arriving late under these conditions shall not be penalized.

Wind Chill Hazards:

Principals and teachers should check the wind chill on cold days. Even moderate wind chills can be dangerous over a period of time. Environment Canada states that wind chill below -25° Celsius presents a risk of frostbite.

School personnel should monitor students for frostbite and adjust the recess time outside according to the weather in their area. Generally, temperatures below -20°C (Wind Chill) would warrant staying inside. It is important to note that some play areas are sheltered, while others are not protected from the wind.
